

Personal insurance

In the field of human resources, issues relating to personal and social insurance are often perceived as difficult and complicated. Unusual personnel matters remain unresolved, and complex cases pose a major challenge. There is a lack of time to deal with matters relating to employment law, disclosure obligations, staff regulations and dismissals in connection with health and accident insurance. Immediate action is often required. It is therefore important that as many issues as possible are sorted out in advance and set out in writing. It is beneficial to have clear guidelines, regulations and information sheets in place, and for staff to be aware of them. We would be delighted to assist you with the following matters:
